

ABSTRACT

A system for performing restorative dentistry on a subject. The system includes a diagnostic step which further includes the creation of a resin template for use in properly placing dental implants in a subject's jaw and a surgical step which includes placing implants in a 5 subject's jaw and using the combination of the template and the implants to create and properly place a dental prosthetic.